Re: United States v. Bolivar Ramirez Tiburcio, 07 Cr. 895 (CM)

Dear Judge McMahon:

The defendant in this matter is scheduled to be sentenced on March 5, 2008 at 9:30 a.m. The Government respectfully submits this letter in response to the defendant's letter dated February 26, 2008 ("Def. Ltr."). The defendant argues that the Court should impose a sentence at the low end of the United States Sentencing Guidelines ("Guidelines" or "U.S.S.G.") range set forth in the United States Probation Department's Presentence Investigation Report, dated January 30, 2008, and addendum dated February 22, 2008 ("PSR") for the following two reasons: (1) the defendant's economic situation; and (2) that the defendant will be deported after serving his sentence and thus the public is adequately protected from his future crimes. The Government respectfully requests that the Court impose a sentence within the Guidelines range of 10 to 16 months' imprisonment as set forth in the PSR, which is sufficient but not greater than necessary to satisfy the legitimate purposes of sentencing.

BACKGROUND

A. The Offense

On December 11, 2007, the defendant appeared before Magistrate Judge Theodore H. Katz and pled guilty to a one count indictment, 07 Cr. 895 (CM) (the "Indictment"). Your Honor accepted the defendant's plea on January 16, 2008. (PSR ¶ 2.) The Indictment charged that from at least on or about March 5, 2007, through on or about March 6, 2007, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, the defendant did enter and was found in the United States after having been deported from the United States subsequent to a conviction for a felony, without having obtained the express consent of the Attorney General of the United States, or his successor, the Secretary for the Department of Homeland Security, to reapply for admission. (PSR ¶ 1.)

B. The Defendant's Criminal History and the PSR

The defendant has one prior conviction, which results in three criminal history points, and was on parole at the time he committed the instant offense, which results in two criminal history points, for a total of five criminal history points and a Criminal History Category of III. (PSR ¶ 28.) Pursuant to the Guidelines Calculation set forth in the Pimentel letter, the Government had determined the number of criminal history points to be three with a corresponding Criminal History Category of II. (PSR ¶ 2f.) In the Pimentel letter, the Government mistakenly failed to add the two criminal history points because the defendant was on parole at the time he committed the instant offense and thus the calculations set forth in the PSR are the correct Guidelines calculations.<sup>1</sup>

The defendant's conviction resulted from the defendant's June 17, 2003 arrest for which he was charged in New York Supreme Court, Bronx County, with criminal possession of a controlled substance in the third degree. (PSR ¶ 26, 27.) On or about July 9, 2003, the defendant pled guilty to this felony charge and was sentenced to 2 to 6 years' imprisonment and his driver's license was suspended for 6 months. (PSR ¶ 26.) After serving approximately seven months of that sentence, on or about February 26, 2004, the defendant was transferred to immigration custody and was deported on or about March 10, 2004. (PSR ¶ 26.) After having been legally deported, defendant was again arrested by authorities on March 5, 2007, on unrelated charges of <sup>1</sup>A copy of the Pimentel letter is attached hereto as Exhibit A. The Government's Pimentel letter expressly advised the defendant that the Pimentel letter did not limit the right of the United States Attorney's Office to change its position, and, in any event, was not binding on the Court. (See Ex. A at 3.) Additionally, directly after the defendant confirmed during his plea allocution that he had reviewed the Government's Guidelines calculation as set forth in the Pimentel letter with his attorney, the Court asked the defendant the following question: "Do you understand that that is simply the government's view of your likely sentence and that that is not binding on Judge McMahon?;" and he answered "Yes." (Transcript dated Dec. 11, 2007 ("Plea Tr.") at 8.) The Court then asked the defendant "Do you understand that even if Judge McMahon were to impose a sentence that's more severe than is set forth in that letter that would not be a basis for your withdrawing your guilty plea?;" and he again answered "Yes." (Plea Tr. at 9.) Accordingly, the defendant is in no way prejudiced by the Court's imposition of a sentence within the Guidelines range set forth in the PSR.

distribution of a controlled substance and conspiracy to distribute a controlled substance and was found to have entered the country illegally. (PSR ¶ 31).<sup>2</sup>

The defendant pled guilty to the Indictment after having received discovery from the Government pursuant to Rule 16 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, and the Government's Pimentel letter setting forth the Government's position on the application of the Guidelines, pursuant to the Second Circuit's suggestion in United States v. Pimentel, 932 F.2d 1029, 1034 (2d Cir. 1991).

Pursuant to Title 8, United States Code, Section 1326(b)(1), the maximum prison sentence for the instant offense is 10 years' imprisonment. (PSR ¶ 52.) Under the Guidelines, this charge has a base offense level of eight, which is increased by four levels to 12 because the defendant was previously deported after being convicted of a felony. (PSR ¶¶ 14, 15.) Assuming a timely allocution and acceptance of responsibility, a two-level reduction is warranted for an offense level of 10. (PSR ¶ 20.) Based on a total offense level of 10 and a Criminal History Category of III, the Guidelines range calculated by the Probation Department in the PSR is 10 to 16 months' imprisonment. (PSR ¶ 53.) The Probation Department recommends a sentence of 14 months' imprisonment. (PSR at 16.)

APPLICABLE LAW

A. The Appropriate Sentence and Application of the Guidelines

Although the Guidelines are no longer mandatory, the Second Circuit has instructed District Courts to consider them "faithfully" when sentencing. United States v. Crosby, 397 F.3d 103, 114 (2d Cir. 2005). The Second Circuit has made clear that "[t]he guidelines cannot be called just "another factor" in the statutory list, 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a), because they are the only integration of the multiple factors and, with important exceptions, their calculations were based upon the actual sentences of many judges." United States v. Rattoballi, 452 F.3d 127, 133 (2d Cir. 2006) (quoting United States v. Jimenez-Beltre, 440 F.3d 514, 518 (1st Cir. 2006) (en banc)). The Supreme Court recent expressed a similar view in Rita v. United States, 127 S.Ct. 2456 (2007). In concluding that courts of appeals may apply a rebuttable presumption of reasonableness to sentences within the Guidelines range, the Court observed that the advisory Guidelines range reflects the considered judgment of the Sentencing Commission, after examining "tens of thousands of sentences and work[ing] with the help of many others in the law enforcement community over a long period of time" in an effort to fulfill the same objectives set out in Section 3553(a). Id. at 2464. Moreover, because the Guidelines "seek to embody the § 3553(a) considerations, both in principle and in practice,” the Guidelines “reflect a rough approximation of sentences that might achieve § 3553(a)’s objectives.” Id. at 2464-65.

The Honorable Colleen McMahon

Under Section 3553(a), the sentencing court must first consider “the nature and circumstances of the offense and the history and characteristics of the defendant.” 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(1). Here, the defendant argues here that he should receive a sentence at the low end of the Guidelines range in light of his impoverished childhood and need to earn money to provide economic support for his children. (Def. Ltr. at 2-4.) The defendant’s family circumstances, while difficult, are by no means unique, and, unfortunately, are similar to many other defendants in illegal reentry cases. In addition, the defendant has already received a reduction in his offense level having been granted a two-point reduction in his offense level for acceptance of responsibility under Section 3E1.1(a) of the Guidelines.

The defendant also requests a sentence at the low end of the Guidelines range because, he argues, under Section 3553(a)(2), the public is protected from his future crimes because he will be deported after serving his sentence for the instant conviction. (Def. Ltr. at 6.) Although relied on by the defendant, the Second Circuit in United States v. Wills, 476 F.3d 103 (2d Cir. 2007), rejected this argument. The Court of Appeals explained that deportation is not properly considered under Section 3553(a)(2) because “criminal conduct committed abroad is capable of harming Americans. . . [as does] cross-border effects of drug smuggling initiated by deportees.” Id. at 108. Moreover, two of the other objectives of Section 3553(a), specifically, the need to reflect the seriousness of the offense, to promote respect for the law, and to provide just punishment for the offense, see 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(2)(A), and the need to afford adequate deterrence to criminal conduct, see 18 U.S.C. § 3553(a)(2)(B), are equally important. Indeed, as the Second Circuit emphasized in Wills, taking into account deportation “would weaken the deterrent effect of punishment [as] [s]ome potential criminals m[ight] consider deportation preferable to imprisonment and would therefore not be as deterred from committing future crimes if they thought they would be deported rather than serve all or part of what should be their appropriate prison term.” Id. at 108. The potential increase in crimes due to a decrease in deterrence led the Second Circuit to conclude in Wills that taking deportation into account on sentencing actually could “detract from the Congressional goal of protecting the public.” Id. Accordingly, the Government believes that a sentence within the Guidelines range set forth in the PSR is sufficient but not greater than necessary.

The Honorable Colleen McMahon

CONCLUSION

For these reasons, the Government respectfully requests that the Court impose a sentence within the Guidelines range set forth in the PSR, as it is sufficient but not greater than necessary to satisfy the legitimate purposes of sentencing.

Re: United States v. Ramirez-Tiburcio
07 Cr. 895 (CM)

Dear Ms. Colyer:

Pursuant to the suggestion of the court in United States v. Pimentel, 932 F.2d 1029, 1034 (2d Cir. 1991), this letter sets forth the present position of the United States Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York (the "Office") regarding the application of the United States Sentencing Guidelines ("U.S.S.G." or "Guidelines") to this case. Please disregard the Pimentel letter sent on November 9, 2007. The Guidelines provisions in effect as of November 1, 2006, apply in this case. This analysis is set forth for informational purposes only, and forms no part of any plea agreement between the Office and Bolivar Ramirez-Tiburcio, a/k/a "Angel Munoz," a/k/a "Bolivar Ramirez-Tiburci" (the "defendant").

The Indictment (07 Cr. 895) charges the defendant in one count with illegally reentering the United States after having been deported following a conviction for the commission of a felony, in violation of Title 8, United States Code, Sections 1326(a) and (b)(1). Count One carries a maximum sentence of ten years' imprisonment, a maximum term of three years' supervised release, a maximum fine of $250,000, and a mandatory special assessment of $100.

The Government currently believes that the Guidelines apply to the crime charged in the Indictment as follows:

Jennifer L. Colyer, Esq.
November 16, 2007

A. Offense Level

1. The Guideline applicable to the offense charged in the Indictment is U.S.S.G. § 2L1.2. Pursuant to 2L1.2(a), the base offense level is 8.

2. Pursuant to U.S.S.G. § 2L1.2(b)(1)(D), there is an 4 level increase because the defendant was previously deported after being convicted of a felony.

3. Assuming the defendant clearly demonstrates acceptance of responsibility, to the satisfaction of the Government, through his allocution and subsequent conduct prior to the imposition of sentence, a 2-level reduction will be warranted, pursuant to U.S.S.G. § 3E1.1(a).

In accordance with the above, the applicable Guidelines offense level for Count One is 10.

B. Criminal History Category

Based upon the information now available to this Office, the defendant has 3 criminal history points, calculated as follows:

1. The defendant was convicted, on or about June 26, 2003, in New York Supreme Court, Bronx County for criminal possession of a controlled substance in the third degree, in violation of New York Penal Law 220.16, for which the defendant received a sentence of 2-6 years imprisonment. Pursuant to U.S.S.G. § 4A1.1(a), this sentence results in 3 criminal history points.

Accordingly, the defendant has a total of 3 criminal history points, which places him in Criminal History Category II.

C. Sentencing Range

Based upon the calculations set forth above, the defendant's Sentencing Guidelines range for Count One of the Indictment is 8-14 months' imprisonment.

In addition, after determining the defendant's ability to pay, the Court may impose a fine pursuant to U.S.S.G. § 5E1.2. At Guidelines offense level 10, the applicable Guidelines fine range is $2,000 to $20,000.

The foregoing Guidelines calculation is based on facts and information presently known to the Office. Nothing in this letter limits the right of this Office to change its position at any time as to the appropriate Guidelines calculation in this case, and to present to the sentencing Judge or the United States Probation Office, either orally or in writing, any and all facts and arguments relevant to sentencing or to the defendant's criminal history category, that are available to the Office at the time of sentencing. Nor does anything in this letter limit the right of this Office to take a position on any departure that may be suggested by the sentencing Judge, the United States Probation Office, or the defendant.

Further, this letter does not and cannot bind either the Court or the United States Probation Office, either as to questions of fact or as to determinations of the correct Guidelines to apply in this case. Instead, the sentence to be imposed upon the defendant is determined solely by the sentencing Judge. This Office cannot and does not make any promise or representation as to what sentence the defendant will receive.

Very truly yours,

MICHAEL J. GARCIA
United States Attorney
